Gold Excitement—Legislative—The Storm and Railroad.

CHICAGO, March 2.—A Sioux City special says that Gordon and Witcomb, the returned members of the Black Hills expedition, were met at the depot by an excited and enthusiastic crowd. There is no question about their being gold in the Black Hills. Specimens they brought back are on exhibition here, and thousands of people have examined them today. They say there is room for five thousand miners, and that they can easily make from $10 to $25 per day as soon as spring opens. Great excitement prevails throughout this section.

At Madison last evening the Quincy railroad bill amendment came up on its passage. A motion to refer was finally carried, after having been made to include the Commissioner of Public Works. The new business will close at 9 o'clock today, and the Grangers, by refusing to extend the session, will probably succeed in continuing the damaging reign of the Potter law.

The Kansas Legislature will adjourn sine die next Friday.

The storm of yesterday has abated, and railroad managers are now hunting for this track in Michigan and Wisconsin in the roads suffered the most inconvenience, and many trains have been entirely discontinued.

The Tilton-Beecher Trial.

BROOKLYN, March 2.—All the counsel and principals were present at the Beecher trial today. The defense, to the surprise of all present, called Edward J. Ovington to the witness stand. The entire audience expected Beecher would testify today.

Ovington testified—I am acquainted with all the parties to this suit. Have known Tilton 12 years and Beecher 30 years. Mrs. Tilton has been living with witness since she left her husband last June. Witness wife and Mrs. Tilton were schoolmates.

Remember an interview with Tilton shortly before the publication of the Bacon letter, when he threatened to publish it. Tilton said: "The time had come for a fight." Witness told him he was doing a gross wrong to the cause of religion in attacking Beecher. Tilton said: "If Beecher had none his duty this would not occur."

Witness had another conversation with him shortly after Tilton had gone before the investigation committee. Tilton said his wife's testimony before the committee amounted to nothing. It was a story which any good woman would give in such a case.

Witness dictated a conversation he heard between Mrs. Ovington and Mrs. Tilton, in which the latter, exonerated Beecher from all blame. Fullerton cross-examined witness closely, and succeeded in causing him some embarrassment. The cross-examination was continued by Fullerton with the view of proving that Tracy had actively engaged in Beecher's defense at the time the church committee was appointed. Witness testified that General Tracy and Mr. Shearman visited Mrs. Tilton at witness' house during the investigation.

Evarts and Porter called twice. Beecher called before the investigation. Witness never refused to admit Florence Tilton to see her mother.

At one interview with witness Tilton said Beecher had treated him like a knave and fool, and that Beecher should do something to prevent slanderous reports. He threatened to slay Beecher by publishing in his letters. The Court here took a recess.

A SAD case of death occurred at 19 Green street, between Race and Bremen, today at 3 o'clock. Mr. Herman B. Brink, while eating his dinner, suddenly died. He is the father of three grown children and one small one, and his family was dependent on his support, and now is left to its own resources. Dr. Stich was called in, but could do nothing. The coroner has been notified, and the inquest will be held this evening.

The Cincinnati Choral Society gives a festival and concert at College Hall, tomorrow evening. The fact that Mr. E. Bowen, conductor, Miss Annie Jones, Miss Katie Evans, Miss Sallie Edwards, Mr. E. Hendon, and Mr. D. Davis and Mary Mathews are to appear in a most excellent programme of selections from Mendelssohn, Haydn, Handel and other noted composers, is sufficient to warrant as large an attendance as College Hall is capable of.

Two professors and amateurs in orthography of the Twenty-fifth Ward evidently caught the spelling-matcher fever last night, now so much in vogue in all parts of the town, and entered into quite a lively contest at the Presbyterian Church in that ward, both old and young participating. The prize consisted of a handsome gold pen, and was carried off by Prof. Turrell on the word "Bayoulesche," before which all except him had wilted. Our entertaining Deputy Recorder, Williamson was out down by the word "Seybe," and Wm. Fullan, the efficient attorney at law, bowed his head in reverence to the word Hyacinthe. A number of the professors and amateurs missed the word Crystallized.

New Officers.

The following are the new officers of the Board of Trade: President, W. T. Bishop; Vice-President, Clement O. Daniel; Daniel B. Pierson, P. P. Lane, J. B. Resor, J. J. Henderson and W. S. ## The Hawthorne Entertainment.

Vicker's Hall last evening was filled to its utmost capacity, on the occasion of the first entertainment of the Hawthorne Club, at which a small admission fee was charged. The performance throughout was a surprise to everyone, on account of its excellent merit, and was rendered without any drawback or "drag," which, as a general thing, are so common among amateur clubs. The trial scene from the Merchant of Venice was put on the stage in a first-class manner, and the cast was truly good. The continuing welcome to the club, of Mr. Wentworth, was especially clever, and the Duke, Antonio, Gratiana and Bassanio, were well personated by Messrs. Miller, Alyward, Brooks and Findlater. The musical selections and the prose readings were all well rendered, and we must especially commend the readings of Miss Salsburg and Mr. O'Brien. For the first time, "The Good for Nothing," with Miss Moss in the title role, was put on and enacted much better than we have frequently seen it at the hands of regular theatrical stock companies. Miss Moss is every such a comedienne, is sprightly and charming, and fairly brought down the house. She was admirably supported.

Board of Control.

The Board of Control met in regular monthly session today, President Remelin in the chair and aquorum present.

The Egner Murder Trial.

The Egner murder trial was promptly resumed this morning at the usual hour, but nothing of particular interest was elicited in the proceedings. The impaneled jury was the order of the day. Mr. Parker, accused by sickness and consequent confinement to his bed, the whole of the time was consumed in wrangling over a motion made by the defense to the effect that the Court either continue or pass the case until the above mentioned juror, who is one of the thirty-six summoned on the original venire and who resides in Green township, could make his appearance.

The question was warmly debated on both sides, and hinged on the Court not having provided for the absence of a juror in case of sickness. The motion, however, was finally overruled.

The crowd, even larger than yesterday, seemed to manifest the same intense interest in the proceedings, and listened to every word in breathless suspense.

Egner was brought into Court at the appointed time, exhibiting the same despondent and conscience-stricken appearance as on yesterday. A particular feature of interest in the courtroom this morning, perhaps worthy of mentioning, was that of an old colored woman, who forged her way in among the crowd, threw several oranges upon the Clerk's desk, with the remark, "Dar you Sheriff, hand dem fruite to de prisoner." The crowd, even larger, than yesterday, seemed to manifest the same intense interest in the proceedings, and listened to every word in breathless suspense.

Contractor Pateler commenced operations in good earnest this morning, and will make things lively for the next few months in this locality.

The Ludlow Reporter has ceased to be free gratis, and after this will be delivered to its patrons at the modest price of 10 cents per month or $1 yearly. Messrs. W. Woodward and Curry, of West Covington, were stopped by troops at the "Robbers' Bridge," a lonely dark turn in the River road where the corporate limits of Covington and West Covington meet, last Saturday night, the Knights of the Road, with slouch hats, issuing from a dark corner of the fence and demanding in a gruff tone of voice their cash. Mr. Woodward, coolly drawing his trusty Colt's, told the marauding gangs that he had no money to spare but on any closer familiarity would dispense with a little cold lead, and continued his journey home unmolested.

Newport.

A short time before Ex-Marshall Robholz went out of office a house of ill-fame on Ann street was pulled and a number of the inmates arrested and sent to jail.
